Hey! June 25, 2010

Yep... It is summer time! This was the temp a few days ago at 6:30 in the evening! I kid you not! It has actually been too hot to even hang out at the beach or pool. That should change this next week though. Temps are supposed to be in the 80s and the weather - beautiful!

It was so hot one day this week, I went out to get the paper and this little bunny rabbit was sitting in the yard and just stopped and looked at me like, "Please don't come any closer... It's too HOT to run!" Cute.

Got a contract on my house. It will take a couple of months (I am guessing) for it all to work out, but at least it only took a couple of days to get an offer. It really does not surprise me. The house is great... I will be sure to let you know what happens, where I move, and when. There may actually be a house here in this neighborhood that I can rent. Now that would work out great. Time will tell. I really want a house and not a condo or an apartment, if I can help it. I really have to have a yard to putter around n. If any of you know of any nice houses for rent, let me know!

There has been a lot going on since I wrote last. Celebrated Jeremy's birthday on June 10. That was fun. He lives in Ghent, so I get to see him most weekends. I simply cannot believe I am old enough to have a son his age! Wasn't he Kai's age just yesterday! He is doing so well, and I am so proud of him.

Funny thing about his cake... I asked the guy at the bakery to write "Happy Birthday, Jeremy!" on the cake, and I could see him immediately freeze. Turns out it was his first day and no one had taught him how to write with icing yet. So we got out the icing container and I coached him through it. He was so nervous that I told him to just put "H.B. Jeremy" on the ice cream cake instead of writing the whole thing out. Really cute! We (the bakery guy and then later Jeremy and I) had a good laugh about it.

My little garden is finally taking off! I have gotten some really nice tomatoes and now I am getting squash, banana peppers, and Jalapenos. Fun! I actually canned my first batch of "Just Judi's Garden Fresh Pasta Sauce" this week. I am still selling it at the Virginia Beach Farmers' Market (the REAL one, not the one near the beach) so come on by and buy!

Virginia Beach Farmer's Market
 The "REAL" one!
 Monday through Friday 10-6; Saturdays 9-6;
 Sundays 10-5
 3640 Dam Neck Road
 Virginia Beach, VA 23456 Fax : 757-463-8386

Also went to my good friend, Johnny's, birthday celebration at an awesome steak restaurant here at the beach - Zoe's. Had a blast and may now have a new favorite beach restaurant! Very cool place!

Other dinners and summer get-togethers this week, too, but I don't always take photos like I used to. Sorry about that.

It is funny how cyclical life is, sometimes.... Several of the parties I have been to in the past three weeks have included friends I have not seen in - literally - years. It has been very nice to reconnect with everyone. Thanks for all of the invitations!

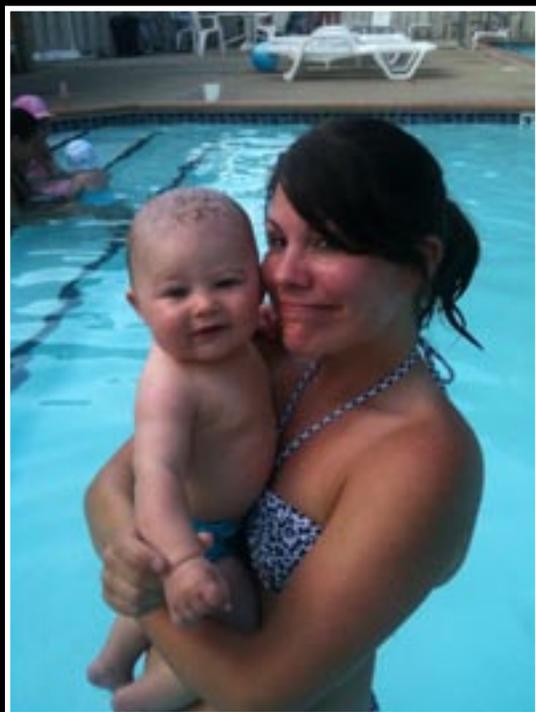

Helped Jess and Ricky with their yard sale a couple of weeks ago, too. That was fun. Hee hee! I love the photo of Kai with the sticker on his head. Makes me laugh. Jess did not see it for a good bit because she was talking with someone.

I will close with a couple of Kai pages so you can see how much he has grown! He is soooo much fun now! Getting him used to the water, too.

I hope to see many of you in Mississippi in a few weeks - IF I get to come down for my high school reunion. I really hope so, but there are tons of things still up in the air here. I will do my best! Thanks for all of the sweet notes! Love to all!
